+++ Incoming orders in Q1 up by +34.6 percent

+++ New company structure at n.runs professionals

+++ Further products planned in the area of IT applications

Oberursel, April 29, 2008: n.runs AG, a leading vendor-independent consulting company specialising in the areas of IT infrastructure and security solutions recorded an exceptionally high volume of contractual orders in the first months of 2008. In Q1 completed orders plus still to be delivered orders (open orders including backlog) increased to EUR 3.5 million. Compared to EUR 2.6 million which was the amount in the previous year, This constitutes an increase of 34.6 percent when compared to last year. This considerable increase in contractual orders can be attributed to orders placed by a number of existing clients and ensures high capacity utilisation for the n.runs consultants in the first half of 2008.

With the launch of the first software product, n.runs AG is introducing a new structure. In the future all activities performed to date are going to be grouped into the Consulting unit. The Consulting unit is going to be complemented by the newly created unit, IT Applications, which is going to be responsible for the development of software solutions. In addition to the first high-security solution (aps-AV) designed and completed for large-scale companies and government-related authorities as well as companies requiring superior security levels, the goal is to develop further marketable solutions based on the core architecture of this solution. Focussing more on license products is going to make an improvement in the forecasting of sales and the generation of additional business growth.

“Increased orders placed by our existing clients are an indication of more demand for IT solutions and ultimately highlights the trust in the expertise of n.runs AG as a specialist for IT security and IT infrastructure. Based on the increase in contractual orders, the highest in the seven year history of the company, we are expecting increased project volumes for 2008 as well as better utilisation of our consultants' capacities which in turn will lead to better results in Consulting when compared to 2007. In the future we are also going to be developing more software solutions in our new unit IT Applications and pushing the growth of n.runs AG with license sales in addition to our profitable consulting business,” explained Andreas Bruns, CEO of n.runs AG.
